

Looking for the “Soon-to-Be” Face of Our Franchise

The Radio Oklahoma Ag Network, based in Oklahoma City, is looking to fill the position of associate director of farm programming.

This person will produce radio reports on the 45-station Radio Oklahoma Ag Network -- both agri-news as well as markets. This person also will be doing interviews with the top newsmakers in our state as well as nationally in the world of agriculture; those interviews will be written up as stories for our award-winning website and daily farm/ranch news email.

This person will conduct interviews via telephone and live in-person at meetings across Oklahoma and beyond. He or she might represent us at the State Capitol, a statewide convention, a local field day, or at one of several national meetings we cover in-person.

We also are engaged in covering our youth -- 4-H and FFA are always a part of our mix, and we cover the largest junior livestock show in the world like it's a sporting event. We do the same as we go and cover speech and leadership competition at the National FFA Convention in Indianapolis.

You will work directly with a Hall of Fame farm and will have the opportunity to have him pass the torch to you becoming the face of our broadcast/digital franchise.

We are owned by folks who are passionate about agriculture and ag youth; and, have no doubt, this franchise will be around for many years to come.

Please send your resume and samples of on-air work/writing to Ron Hays at ron.hays@radiooklahoma.net or call to discuss your interest at phone 405/473-6144.
