

Job Overview:

We are looking for an energetic candidate with natural curiosity and entry-level or above news gathering/writing/reporting skills to serve as a summer assistant for Brownfield Ag News.

This is an 8-week, 40-hour per week, paid position June – July 2018. Schedule modification will be considered depending upon the applicant’s availability and college schedule. The position is based in Jefferson City, Missouri.

Job Responsibilities:

Job responsibilities include creating and producing content for Brownfield’s radio network, website, mobile application, daily e-newsletter and social platforms. The successful applicant will have the opportunity to learn by working with a nationally respected and award-winning team of professional farm broadcasters. The role may be modified depending upon the skill set of the selected applicant.

Job Qualifications:

Some education (formal or informal) and/or experience as an agricultural or news communicator. Broadcast-focus and strong writing skills are necessary. Agricultural background and/or knowledge is beneficial.
