

Talley Broadcasting is accepting applications for an Agricultural Broadcaster position at the Litchfield, Illinois, studio location for radio stations WSMI & WSMI-FM.

Knowledge of agriculture is important.

Tasks include contacting local agricultural news sources to gather news; writing local ag news stories; editing text and audio; recording interviews and actualities; attending and reporting on meetings; broadcasting live from various special events; gathering, writing, editing, and voicing all content for two newscasts a day; posting local stories to our websites; and producing a series of interview programs especially during WSMI's Farmers Appreciation month.

Local advertising sales is also an important part of the job. Formal education in broadcasting and/or agriculture, broadcast news experience and familiarity with Montgomery County, Illinois, are preferred. Important skills for success in the position include: accuracy, the ability to work with people in a productive manner including news contacts and co-workers, self-starting, good grammar and news writing skills, word processing skills, interview skills, digital audio editing skills, skill with broadcast "remote" equipment, good organization, time management skills, the ability to complete news tasks by a deadline, and an authoritative on air delivery. Our facilities include a well-equipped control room, production room, and a workstation for the agricultural broadcaster that is equipped with Wireready, a Dixon Newsmixer, Fostex RM-1 Monitor, Adobe Audition, Telos HX1 telephone hybrid, and microphone.

Please send resumes to Brian Talley, WSMI Radio Station, P.O. Box 10, Litchfield, IL or email to brian@wsmiradio.com.
